Jon Rauchway is a partner in the Trial Group, the head of the Environmental & Public Lands Group, and a member of the firm's Executive Committee. He specializes in environmental litigation, including lawsuits alleging environmental contamination based on common-law theories and cases involving CERCLA, the Clean Water Act, the Clean Air Act, and related state statutes. He also handles litigation involving nearly all aspects of the energy and mining industries, such as disputes over royalty payments, operating agreements, and ownership interests.

In addition to his work in the trial courts, Jon is an experienced appellate advocate, having argued appeals before the U.S. Courts of Appeals for the Second, Ninth, and Tenth Circuits, as well as state appellate courts in Colorado and elsewhere. For over a decade, he was a member of the Criminal Justice Act Panel for the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Tenth Circuit and appeared regularly before the Court during that period.

Prior to joining Davis Graham, Jon practiced at an international law firm in New York City and spent one year clerking for a U.S. District Judge in Dallas, Texas.

Jon currently serves on the Denver Botanic Garden Board of Trustees. He also has served on the boards of local non-profit organizations, including The Urban Farm and the Colfax Community Network (former board chair), and two terms on the board of trustees for the Legal Aid Foundation of Colorado. He serves as a Fellow of the American Bar Foundation.

He has been recognized by Benchmark Litigation as a Litigation Star in Environmental and Energy. Since 2016, Jon has been selected for inclusion in The Best Lawyers in America® for Product Liability Litigation – Defendants. In 2023, Jon was recognized by Best Lawyers® as the “Lawyer of the Year” for Product Liability Litigation – Defendants. In 2018, he was named the Barrister’s Choice “Best Environmental Attorney” as well as “Lawyer of the Year” by Law Week Colorado. Jon is listed by Lawdragon as one of the “500 Leading U.S. Environmental Lawyers” as well as one of the “500 Leading U.S. Energy Lawyers” in its annual guide. In 2025 and 2026, he was named a Top Lawyer in Environmental law by 5280. In 2026, he was recognized in the Lawdragon 500 Leading Environmental Lawyers – The Green 500. He has been named a Colorado Super Lawyer in Super Lawyers. Jon has been recognized by Chambers USA as a Leader in Their Field in Environment law.

RECENT REPRESENTATIONS

- Led Davis Graham trial team defending a CERCLA contribution case brought by the proposed by Davis Graham, assigning 65% of the costs to the plaintiff.
- Defended a public utility in a Clean Water Act citizen suit in one of the first cases to apply the Supreme Court's "functional equivalent" test. The jury returned a complete defense verdict.
- Led defense team in 13-year lawsuit brought by over 100 landowners claiming their properties had been contaminated by the operations of a smelter in Anaconda, Montana. Davis Graham developed a novel defense to these common-law claims based on the federal CERCLA statute. Jon argued this defense without success four times in lower courts, including the Montana Supreme Court. The United States Supreme Court reversed, upholding the CERCLA-based defense in large part.
- Defended a company facing multi-million-dollar damage claims by a group of Nevada property owners who claimed their land and water had been contaminated by the company's Superfund site. After a three-week trial in federal court, the jury returned a complete defense verdict.
- Brought a lawsuit on behalf of our client against the United States concerning the past and future costs of environmental cleanup at four phosphate mines in Idaho. Cleanup costs were estimated in the hundreds of millions of dollars. Successfully obtained summary judgment on the liability of the government on all asserted grounds—CERCLA owner, operator, and arranger—at all four sites.
- Represents defendants in Clean Water Act citizen suits in several western states.
- Represents defendants in toxic tort and environmental contamination cases around the country.
- Represents oil and gas producers in royalty payment disputes in several western states.
