Theresa Wardon Benz is a partner in the Trial Group at Davis Graham & Stubbs LLP, where she leads the firm's appellate practice. She has represented leading companies in complex commercial litigation, construction disputes, class actions, and tort cases, both in trial courts and high-stakes appeals. With nearly 40 weeks of trial experience in her practice, Theresa has skillfully managed appellate monitoring, examining witnesses, and arguing motions and jury instructions.

An adept and perceptive leader and storyteller, Theresa has briefed and argued winning appeals for clients in the manufacturing, healthcare, and energy sectors, among others, over disputes involving commercial transactions, products liability, professional malpractice, class action litigation, and environmental clean-up in federal and state courts across the country, but with particular emphasis on Colorado and the Tenth Circuit. Because she was also trained as a trial lawyer, Theresa has unique experience in appellate monitoring from case inception through appeal, which includes strategic advice on issues throughout the course of the case, on preserving a trial record for appeal, participating in trials as monitoring counsel, drafting appellate briefs, and presenting oral arguments in both federal and state appellate courts.

Theresa received her J.D. magna cum laude and Order of the Coif from Northwestern University Law School and earned her B.A. summa cum laude in History from Boston College. Following law school, she clerked for Judge Neil M. Gorsuch of the Tenth Circuit Court of Appeals (now a U.S. Supreme Court Associate Justice). As a Richard Marden Davis Award recipient, her commitment to excellence in the legal community extends beyond the courtroom through her civic and community involvement. Theresa maintains an impactful pro bono practice from her representation of previously pro se plaintiffs in constitutional challenges to partnering with the ACLU to challenge unreasonable searches and infringements on constitutional rights. She has also previously served as a long-time board member for The Gathering Place, Denver's only daytime shelter for women, children, and transgender individuals experiencing poverty. In addition, she is a mentor for Law School . . . Yes We Can, which is the first law school pipeline program in Colorado to target high-achieving first-year college students from diverse backgrounds and provide them access to the legal profession. Theresa was also a fellow for the Leadership Council for Legal Diversity (LCLD) and serves as the co-chair of the Davis Graham Women in Leadership Lecture Series (WILLS).
