Hannah Goldstein is an associate at Davis Graham & Stubbs LLP in the Employment & Labor Group. Hannah collaborates with clients from diverse industries throughout Colorado, including public and private companies, in employment litigation matters.

Prior to joining Davis Graham, Hannah practiced in the Denver office of an international law firm, where she handled a broad range of commercial and employment disputes, including allegations of discrimination, retaliation, wage and hour issues, wrongful termination, and breach of employment contract. Her practice also included commercial litigation matters such as real estate and construction disputes, appellate cases, and claims involving breach of contract and tortious conduct.

Hannah earned her J.D. from the University of Denver Sturm College of Law where she served as a student attorney in the Civil Litigation Clinic and contributed to the Denver Law Review. In addition, she was an Academic Achievement Program Leader for both Contracts and Torts. Hannah also worked at an education law firm and with the Colorado Lawyers Committee.

Before law school, Hannah earned her B.A. in International Affairs with a minor in Public Policy from The George Washington University. During this time, she was actively involved in political campaigns, worked on Capitol Hill, and gained experience with both a political consulting firm and a national nonprofit.
