

Jennifer Jaskolka

Jennifer guides multibillion-businesses on legal strategies aligned with the risk profile of the organization and its stakeholders. She is known for being a strategic business partner that can synthesize legal and business considerations with a holistic approach, while leading with integrity, inclusion, and imagination. Her personal brand is focused on bringing diverse teams of professionals together to make impactful things happen for the organizations and communities.

As a trusted advisor to C-suite executives, boards, and broader teams, Jennifer is valued for her ability to build relationships and exert influence, managing complex and material issues, and a nuanced understanding of the complex external environment in which employers operate.

As an ethnic minority, first-generation American, first-generation college graduate, and dual citizen, Jennifer is committed to creating cultures that optimize acceptance, inclusion, equity, and belonging. She spends her professional investment time advocating for, coaching, and championing accessible development pathways for women and historically underrepresented attorneys aspiring to gain access to, and lead, in the legal profession. Jennifer has experience serving on a variety of community boards including Law School...Yes We Can!, Denver Board of Public Health and Environment, Colorado Pledge to Diversity, Colorado Women's Bar Association Foundation, and Colorado Association of Corporate Counsel and leading company-sponsored Diversity, Inclusion and Belonging councils and programs.